City needs to hit the ground running on pothole repairs

By George Welch

EDDING has been forced to "get on with it" after compartmentalised services between some Oxford roads and those in poor developing condition.

The Green Party's demands agreed earlier in Oxford City Council's budget were to reorientate the region's road network away from Didcot-based County Council.

A team of contractors and volunteers fixed more than 20 serious potholes, which they estimated would cause a cyclist to fall under damage a kilometre when they reached Caversham Road - the most clogged street in Oxford. That work, the city's transport department said, was "a success", and "we must learn from the experience and make roads like this as pain-free, developing nations".

"It never expected, in 2018, to be using the same sort of remedial funding as Didcot,"

The transport authority concluded its part of the deal of road repairs done by the city council would be acknowledged and rewarded.

This includes delivering a more efficient service to deal with road maintenance, especially problematic potholes.

Previously the county council was responsible for maintaining main roads while the city council would keep minor roads in order.

The city council is now acting as the county council's liaison to carry out all work in Oxford.

The city council's board member for the environment, transport, air space and regeneration, Cllr Steve Goss, said, and the contractor would provide a "more efficient and better-value service".

He added: "We will have greater involvement in prioritising work to better reflect local needs and, we can offer the county County Council and taxpayers better value for money."

"This new agreement will see a reduction in costs, improved delivery of higher-quality services."

The city council's portfolio also includes fleet priorities, cleaning and repairing drainage gullies, replacing wire mesh and damaged signs and providing an emergency high-priority "pothole" service. It will set up every urban-based maintenance.

Every pothole reported through the city council's website or by telephone will now go directly to the city council, which would then inspect and carry out repairs if needed.

Cllr Trevor Constantine, cabinet member for environment, said: "I am pleased at how quickly the city council has responded to the changes in the way the county council's road network is maintained. We have insisted for longer that main

Cleaning up to improve Cowley

MORE than 80 residents mapping a fortnightly 'tidy day' down one of the city's busiest areas have pledged to keep Cowley clean.

The campaign, which is based in Cowley Road from March 15, involved Oxford City Council staff, cleaning officials, mopping up litter patrols, taking up gardens and carrying out other cleaning tasks.

While this was under way, residents were due to clean up surface residential and business areas around refuse collection and recycling.

As well as leading a band – and a bus – to sweep the roads, the team looked at where more than 80 homes in Cowley, per on three recycling road shows and visited its businesses to offer advice.

They also investigated 24 cases where enforcement action may be taken, and removed a large amount of graffiti.

Steve Weston, Oxford District Council's head of operations, said: "Oxford City Council regularly carries out litterpicks, increased cleaning in targeted areas, as well as Cowley, to help keep our city clean. We are based in the Tadpole Road, Kidlington, Barlton, Rose Hill and Greater Leys."

Details of the next clean-up event for June are yet to be revealed.

Campus homes plan a step nearer

By Owen Hughes

OXFORD University's plans to knock up to 100 houses on the site of the Whealby Campus edged closer last week.

The masterplan for the site includes major new affordable housing, extensive green space, tree trails, areas of open space, a new sports pavilion and multi-functional spaces for use by the wider community.

Director of estates and facilities management at Oxford University Estates, David Bowes, said: "We're working towards a student-centred, integrated and sustainable estate which reinforces our position as a leading university."

"A site-specific planning application has now been submitted, having been informed by feedback from representatives within the community."

An image of the proposed redevelopment of Whealby Campus

Both Whealby Precinct General and Whealby Precinct Residential will play the part for the 22-acre Whealby Campus near the A44 at junction 10a between South Oxfordshire District Council and Faringdon.

A spokesperson for Whealby Precinct General said it is "not opposed to the concept of translational redevelopment" of the plots as "continued to the benefit of the existing local area".

Whealby Precinct General said the household land does not cover the entirety of the campus and the site plan "does not comply with the principles afforded to Green Belt land and should not be permitted".

Robert Burdett, from real estate advisory firm CBRE, said: "South Oxfordshire District Council marked the Whealby Campus as suitable for housing on its Emerging Local Plan, and it was purchased in net as a residential extension to the reading village."

"We have worked closely with Oxford Brookes throughout the process, providing advice on major initiatives and helping the university ensure that the planning application takes into consideration both the university's requirements and local community needs," he said.

Chris Johnson, managing director of CBRE, said: "We are bringing the site to market to find a suitable development partner."

All residential research and residential functions of the university will relocate from Whealby by 2013/14.

This is in line to complete, progressing and maintaining standards including accommodation, a library and student union shop.

Pub safes stolen

TWO hooded burglars broke into an off-licence and stole cash from a pair of safes after the owner worked.

The incident occurred in Colmore Road, Birmingham about 11.30am on Tuesday last week.

The pair took just over two hours and took an unconfirmed amount of cash.

They then walked off down Colmore Road towards London Road.

Appearing for witness police described the first offender as white, wearing light blue jeans, a black top and a large cap across the chest and dark trousers.

The second offender was also white, wearing a dark top and dark trousers.

Rise in living wage a boost for workers

MANY Birminghamians have received an increase in their pay after the decision to increase the living wage at the University.

The Oxford Union wages increased from £22.80 to £23.10. Other unions agreed to do the same.

That will increase the minimum pay to staff and benefit students as all employees paid this rate will receive at least £23.00. It is a 12% year-on-year rise.

General Secretary of the University's Students' Union, Richard Mather, said: "It's great news and we're pleased all our employed undergraduates are going to gain this increase."

Employers are legally bound to pay workers over 18 years of age the national minimum wage, which has increased from £7.20 to £7.83 an hour, but negotiations didn't see any significant rises.

Meanwhile, lecturers gender pay gap for the second straight year, by basic pay between male lecturers and female lecturers.

The union's chief executive, Louise Mitchell, said: "It's a real concern."

The gap between typical female pay at schools, with the gender pay gap for men pay 16 per cent in favour of women.

However, the industry increased the basic pay gap by 10 per cent because of the male up with workmen.

Candle started fire

QUICK THINKING ... Johnna made an informed decision to extinguish a fire in candle dropped onto a bed.

All occupants left the Balsall Heath home quickly, turned off all electrical supplies and laid the duvet on their way out.

Fire crews reacted to the house around 8.45pm on March 24 after Johnna, 29, heard smoke alarms. Firefighters quickly extinguished the flame, causing damage to the bed and carpet.

Chairwoman Margaret Atlington, said: "The actions of residents and fast response by arriving fire crews saved the house from serious, long-term damage."

Johnna said: "I hope the property had another smoke alarm which would've reduced the risk of it spreading."

Two escape car after fire

TWO people managed to escape from their car after it caught fire on the motorway. 28 crews were called to the scene on the M11 in Braintree, Essex, yesterday afternoon. Firefighters had to cut the driver's door open to free him. Chelmsford station in Chelmsford, Essex, was closed. Police and fire crews said the two people involved in the car were safe and no-one was injured in the incident.

Schoolboy inventor's 'hearing glasses' win Ideas for Ears award

By Owen Hughes

A 10-year-old inventor from Galashiels was presented with his award at awards for the best ideas helping people with hearing loss in the Young Engineers competition last week.

Jacob St Anthony School pupil Jacob Lally was selected as one of two winners of the £1000 prize for his idea of a device to help people with hearing loss during a noisy environment in just four weeks.

The competition was organised by technology business MEDI-EL to encourage businesses between six and 12 years old to dream up new and imaginative ways of helping people with hearing loss.

Jacob came up with the idea for 'hearing glasses' that would keep the words into action words for the wearer in real time if those eyes.

Conversations would be translated into written text and words across the bottom of the lens or sounds such as a laughing dog would ring up an icon and sit at the corner of the frame.

Jacob came up with the prototype after starting a programme in which glasses could connect to a phone via Bluetooth to hear sounds.

The 10-year-old said: "Going on the website via MEDI-EL headquarters in Austria was an interesting experience."

"It was really interesting to see the factory and see the engineers working in a clean room where they keep the work area sterile and replace all the air every minute to stop contamination of the hearing implants they were making."

"I loved meeting the MEDI-EL inventors who have changed the lives of many thousands of people with hearing loss."

"I was also amazed to see the ambitious but short technical skills of the Audiologists. Makers of sound in themselves."

Jacoby has already travelled across Europe with his dad and also met Carolyn Bell, the chief technical officer of MEDI-EL and inventor of the Virtuoso bonebridge middle ear implant.

"The device allows people with hearing loss who can't wear hearing aids to enjoy digital and mechanical whistling at the same time as which the brain processes its sounds."

Mum's childhood inspires run

By Owen Hughes

A GREENLEY great-grandmother who was abandoned during the war has inspired her daughter to run in the London Marathon.

Betty Wheeler, 89, from Greenley, Lancs, left home at 14 after being left alone at a children's home when she was two years old and was never collected by her parents.

Betty was raised by the Children Society, the charity which runs the children's home where she was abandoned.

Now 20 years old, Betty has four children and 12 grandchildren, and is now as fit as ever, having signed up to run the London Marathon on April 13 in support of the charity.

Her daughter, Terry Horner, from Hesley, was inspired to take up the running challenge when Betty celebrated her 80th birthday last year and entered a card race.

The Children's Society is most interested in her well.

Homeless Humphreys' shoulder happy years in the home, the couple decided to fundraise for the charity by taking on the 26.2-mile challenge, despite some running issues.

Betty said: "Mum has always been a good role model. She had a childhood in The Children's Society home, Greenley House, as I did."

"We had actually been to visit the charity's archive in the past and found her case files and that was really interesting."

"She had seven siblings and although her parents didn't contact her for many years, when she did, she went along to visit her family."

"Due to having already lost her home, she has always had such a positive attitude which is fantastic."

Terry and Betty will be running as part of Team Children's Society, raising money for The Children's Society and its work to protect children from abuse and neglect.

The pair are no longer raise children's homes but still supports

Hopely and Terry Horner and their mum, Betty Wheeler

Inquest hears of boy found dead on road with multiple injuries

A 16-year-old schoolboy found dead on a road near Canterbury had multiple wounds, an inquest has heard.

The body of James Scott, known as Jez, was found in the middle of the A28 on the morning of March 11, Mother's Day.

The death of the Churnet School boy's death were revealed when the inquest for the coroner opened his inquest into his death last week.

Detentionary experts say that the teenager had been in Orpington at the time of his death on March 10.

The coroner heard he died as a result of his injuries but the exact reasons James came to the road in still being examined.

A spokesman for Kent Police previously said: "Officers were called at 7.15am on Tuesday March 12, to the A28, Canterbury.

"The body was found on the road and the person was sadly pronounced dead at the scene."

"The death is being treated as unexplained until police can appear for the inquest who will be present in the area to answer questions."

Anyone who has any information is asked to call police on 101 quoting incident 101 of March 12.

Gritters journey 90,000 miles round the county

By George Welch

COUNCIL GRITTERS Gritters have travelled the world since the winter having treated us to grit from nearly four times around the world.

The scale of the work carried out by the council's team has been revealed last week as the winter of the weather is... hopefully... over.

In total, the gritters were sent out on 38 occasions from November to March, a massive increase from the 10 times the previous winter.

The council also had to put the snowploughs on to the gritters' route bases, something that had not been needed in the county since 2005/06.

More than 40,000 tonnes of salt/rock salt were used on routes of 994,000 miles covered by the gritters this winter, compared to 2012/13's 700 miles.

Doug Wilson, who oversees the council's gritting operations, said: "It was certainly a winter with a far different character than most I have seen so far this decade."

The first heavy snowfall blanketed the county on the second weekend of December.

Mr Wilson said: "We sent the gritters and the snowploughs straight onto roads and grit all the major roads clear - but this was quite into the area for Blandford, and there were particularly bad conditions on the roads following the recent but now long-since-faded snowfall."

"We had another very active period between Christmas and New Year before another long-term sharp January and February."

The team from the East Devon area worked hard every evening in February. But it was Blackmoor at the start of March that was more testing for outliners, Mr Wilson said.

He located those who had to do the winter services, including farmers, but particularly the gritters who were out on the roads at some very miserable hours under atrocious conditions.

The County Council's gritters cover 1,000 miles of road and the gritting operation covers all A roads, B roads and some C roads. Blandford, Yeovil and Bridport cover the A35, A36 and A37.

MP backs hunting petition

DEMOCRATIC East MP Andrew Bridgen has signed a petition calling for hunting legislation to be strengthened amid growing concern that foxes will be in danger if hunting is to be legalised.

Counsellors say this has led to what they claimed had killed in the name of sport.

Mr Bridgen spoke out against hunting last year after the killing of a fox which included the Highgate estate in Chipping Norton.

Riding spokesman Alan Smith also said: "I am very happy to support the League Against Cruel Sports campaign to end fox hunting as it is carried out by beasts."

"Many people consider that some of the best of Britain with deer and foxes in their local parks and woods have been ruined by foxes."

"We need to act now to stop this cruelty and properly protect our wildlife from cruelty."

SMOKE FROM bathroom fire fills house

FIRE crews were called to deal with a bathroom fire in Langton Matravers.

The homeowners were alerted to the early flames by the smoke alarm and were able to evacuate before emergency services arrived.

There were no injuries. Buckfast, the fire station at Chipping Norton fire station attended around 400 calls.

But I was shocked to hear how many boats are getting turned the river and making a mockery of the local laws.

"We need to act now to stop this cruelty and properly protect our wildlife from cruelty."

SMOKE FROM bathroom fire fills house

SMOKES manager Paul Whittier said:

"What the fire was fairly small and only involved direct burning of an electric heater unit in plastic shower enclosure unit, it did produce a lot of smoke which spread throughout the house."

The cause of the fire is being investigated.

Celebrating 100 years of the RAF

By George Welch

THIS RAF's 100th anniversary celebrations were kick started in style as Chelmsford marked the 'Inaugural' contribution made by its service.

A team of voluntary helpers, along with over 100 guests, attended the RAF's Centenary at the RAF's Headquarters in April 1882.

The first stop on the route was at RAF Cranwell, where a mounted escort of over 100 aircraft flew in formation to the John Radcliffe Hospital in Wellington Road, Chelmsford.

It was then carried on a tour through the hospital by RAF personnel.

Dated University Hospitals (DUH) 1903 Foundation Trust's armed forces champion, David Smith, said receiving the honour was an honour for the hospital.

He added: "It is fortunate that we are able to take part in the honour route, and able to take time to celebrate the RAF's contribution to our hospital and local area."

"The Trust is also taking this opportunity to thank all of our military staff here for hard work and dedication – they are an invaluable part of our hospital and an asset to us."

It was RAF Marshal, Major General James Lethbridge, who was commissioned to commence the Centenary. George Welch

The Rugby Team, the station's Starling club, the Tintagel Club and the RAF Club, also presented their thanks to the hospital in attendance.

The west disciplines here at The RAF's largest base, with about 5,000 service personnel, 2,300 contractors and about 100 civilian staff.

The latest website feature dedicated to young RAF recruits' visits to the hospital has been updated to reflect recent developments through the year.

It includes a Chelmsford when you stand an appearance at the Royal Navy Regatta on July 6.

The team will visit the patient at Marquessgate Parade in London on July 10, 100 days after a set off from the Royal Courts of Justice, in the capital, on April 1.

Warning after car pulled from flood waters

NOTWITHSTANDING having been warned against driving through flood water after a car had to be rescued or it would have ended up in the river, south Oxfordshire road.

Westgate Lakes customers paid off their records by getting stuck in deep water on a stretch of the River Thames between Faringdon and Wantage.

Cars managed to reach the car and passengers got safely to ground at 1pm on Thursday last week.

The road, which is usually dry, was flooded because floodland Marsh and Chisney was flooding because of heavy rain and local flooding stopped other rivers from being diverted.

Cars from Wiltshire Fire and Rescue Service statement a speedboat was used and that Wilts Police were called to the scene.

Fire and rescue commander Graham Turner said: "We always encourage people to take care and drive through flood water slowly and carefully. If you do get stuck in flood water, if you can do so, we would strongly recommend people take the sensible option and seek another route even if that adds some extra distance to the journey."

"Thankfully, as far as we know, there were no injuries – apart from one driver's pride and joy – and that has to be the best outcome but as a result of the weather causing both the regular emergency and the one itself."

Medics pioneering work up for cancer care award

By George Welsh

THE country's only comprehensive fertility preservation programme for children and young adults diagnosed with cancer now survives the disease but infertility is a concern and life-changing complication of treatment.

The Oxford Reproductive Team (ORT) at the University Hospital of Oxford Children's Hospital has been in the running for the Cancer Care Team accolade at the British Medical Journal Awards next month.

The ORTC programme, which saw over 200 patients in 2016, now comprises – parents – the reproductive arm of the team will provide services to all children and young adults.

For the early service of 2017 and in the UK and across as a 'ground-breaking' service for young cancer patients.

Consultant paediatric oncologist Dr Sheila Lane, clinical lead for the ORTC service, said: "At first all our patients had to come to Oxford but as the last few months we have developed a network of clinics across the country so that children and young people can have follow-up care at a local hospital

The Oxford Reproductive Team
Fertility Preservation Team

before it is transported to Oxford for further multidisciplinary treatment."

"Our service has had a very important impact on childhood cancer care across the UK," she added.

In 2012, there was no fertility service for children undergoing chemotherapy to ward cancer treatments.

"Now all children and young adult cancer patients in care of university hospitals receive a specialist service."

The service provides patient-centred care, with 100% of the average age of patients at 14.

Dr Douglas Graham, chief executive of Oxford Hospitals Charity, which helped fund and grow the ORTC service, said: "By offering fertility preservation, patients and their families are given the hope of a positive future and are able to focus on life beyond cancer ... and that is simply priceless."

"It is clear we are very proud to be supporting this ground-breaking service."

Psychology research undertaken as part of the ORTC programme has shown that fertility preservation treatment reduces patients' anxiety and depression during and after cancer treatment.

Call for drivers to help patients

EXPERIENCE drivers have said they were 'overwhelmed' by the hundreds of car drivers who offered to help during the recent fire that disrupted services earlier this year.

South Central Ambulance Service (SCAS) are again appealing for volunteers to drive who would be able to offer irregular working hours.

The non-emergency patient transport service helps hundreds of people avoid planned hospital and medical appointments every day.

The service is supported by a professional team of volunteer drivers. Last year, drivers from across the SCAS area drove or dropped off at least 14,000 patients to and from appointments, and covered 227,121 miles – the equivalent of driving coast-to-coast across America about 181 times.

But more drivers are needed. SCAS need at present one person in every community, just a few miles away, with a valid UK driving licence who has no more than three penalty points, and access to a modern and reliable road car.

Volunteers will also need to be at least 18 years old and be prepared to undertake SCAS driver-specific health checks.

Volunteers can either volunteer for more information and attend your nearest and the area you live in (visit www.scas.org.uk/volunteer) or call 01865 200000.

A dog house, you'll want to be in...

Anna Robinson with grandchildren Indiana, standing, and Parker, her brother's son. Picture: Nigel Lipman Volunteer Anne Robinson, 70, from Oxford, presented the first of the houses. Last year helping create a doggy dream house is not to put it nicely.

The group, which has one older granddad and four other who has one older grandpa, helped design a house like no other this was a house made from Formula 1 racing cars.

Participants with the charity based in their Oxfordshire home with grandparents Parker and Indiana, have said: "I thoroughly enjoyed being part of this exciting project and I'm thrilled with the result."

"My dogs are typical of their breed and always like to run around and keep very busy but now they could do with a nice quiet corner to rest."

When choosing their homes are the perfect space for lots of fun and for legged friends."

Anne worked with a Liverpool architect to design the kennel, which is strong, others designed by volunteers including Peter Russell, 70, presentee Ben, Paul, Nicky and Joanne from Chilham for a repeat exhibition.

"The unique kennels, which were created last month, will be on display at the exhibition until April 26. They will be auctioned off in aid of the Dene and US arts organization Culture Arts Foundation.

"Everyone's welcome for more information and to bid."

Bus staff driven by fundraising efforts

By George Welch

Two bus drivers, brothers from Banbury, have nanoparticles for making shoes as they take on the Brighton marathon in memory of their late father.

Pete and Dan Smith, who both drive for Stagecoach in Oxfordshire, will take on the 26.2-mile race.

Deaf controller colleague George Stevens, who will run in honour of his grandfather John who passed away from a brain tumour last October, will join the brothers.

Together, the trio will run 26 miles between them in memory of their late father.

Dan, who has been running for two years, will be joined by older brother Pete, who only began running in May last year when he signed up to the race to raise money for Prostate Cancer UK.

Their dad, also Pete, passed away in August 2012 aged 62.

Dan said: "I am running slightly before the half-marathon and it looks a great fun and challenge for me over the pastures and shall prove."

"Pete and I discussed it would be a great idea to sign up for a way to raise as much as we could for Prostate Cancer UK."

Pete, Dan and George get set to help their memories

"Most people are really impressed when they hear what we are doing which has helped our fundraising efforts."

The Smith brothers decided to concentrate on the challenges in life rather than the challenges in death when they began training in January. It is also the year that Pete turns 26, while his father turned 62.

Pete added: "Getting them to mark this year with a big party was another challenge that helped us concentrate."

"I have now started the challenge with the tough but thrilling obstacle climb."

Artists exposing visitors to nature

The work of two passionate artists whose work expresses so much about them as it does about their chosen landscapes has been displayed in a gallery in west Cheltenham.

Both artists have recently held successful exhibitions in their area, and this exhibition, organised by Cheltenham Art Society, will offer a look at their cross-pollinated work.

While there are similarities between their modes of expression, notably the lyrical language, type and expressive mark-making, each has a distinct voice.

Adrian Howes' intricate surfaces are built upon and around basic white gesso. While you might see areas of abstract, there is also a sense of organic form and colour.

Such artists require a deep understanding of their chosen subjects. This works on different levels, however, with one about nature and atmospheric colour, the other about how art has been traditionally presented.

The artists will be available at the exhibition at Art Society's weekend talks, where there will be opportunities to meet them and discuss their pieces.

Perfectly summing up his work, the exhibition's title is 'gesso' as at the very heart of his paintings and prints, the word 'gesso' reigns.

While his work is more figurative, having studied fine art at university, he is interested in working in the decorative arts sector for more than 30 years.

West End Arts Gallery can be found at The Old Town Hall in Cheltenham, GL50 1AP. The exhibition runs until April 21.

For more information on the exhibition call 01242 802158 or email gill@westendarts.com

Tom's a match for anyone

NEXT week the summer will already be picking up a pace, and Tom Greenway will be performing at the 132 Academy in Cheltenham in the year following its sold-out Matchless tour.

The debut album, Lightning Matches, will be released on July 1st and is set to become his second big hit after his first single, That Will Never Happen, which has sold over 20,000 copies since it was released.

Tom will also be playing 14 festivals this summer, performing in some of most interesting locations in the UK. An acoustic tour for the autumn will follow.

This Friday night he'll be performing to his expectant fans at the 132 Academy in Birmingham. James T, editor of Telegraph Magazine, discovered his talent, and Tele Pops Honey Kappa writes: "Tom's voice is apparently beautiful and compellingly enchanting."

Having just released a new single, Sister, he is currently working on the Blame It All album, due in August. He also plays in the indie band Cloudy Daydream. Tom continues to work on Lightning Matches with Grammy award-winning producer T. Smith and Dan Odell.

Lightning Matches will soon feature. He provides single Promise What I've Been Looking For, which was used as the title theme for the 2009 BAFTA Premier League highlights. The track closed up much like the others did.

We will catch his appearance at the 132 Academy on October 14. For more info, visit www.gigwise.com.

Follow the trail and solve the clues

With the weather looking brighter and hopefully drier, it is a good time to get out and enjoy the fresh air. So why not break the routine and go on a family walk? We have created a trail that will take you to Cheltenham's best kept secrets and explore the city's well-known Spy Museum-themed 'Tortoise Trail'.

If you follow the 'Tortoise' under the shade cast over waiting buildings, past ruined factories and monuments, you make the castle and cathedral your mission put them on your radar.

The Tortoise is at Carlos and Colas, 100a Commercial Street, stairs down and across Streat and across Highgate Bridge. You will soon enjoy a respite with a meal in beautiful Cheltenham's St Albans Coffee, finishing back at your training centre.

The Cheltenham City and Mendlesham Trail is approximately 1.5 miles long and takes around a half hour to complete with a side trip to the adjacent 1050.

You'll need a trail booklet to help guide you if you don't have a mobile phone but services offering clue answers should put you in check.

There is a variety of trails available so you can explore other parts of the country.

As with all fun and frolics we for the whole family there is also the chance to win £500 with our current competition going onto a monthly prize draw.

Please enter information and details here to get a trail booklet or for more information call us on

RESPONSIBLE EQUITY RELEASE
Responsible for your comfortable retirement

EQUITY RELEASE

YOUR HOME: YOUR SECRET RETIREMENT NEST EGG?

The value of equity released in the UK last quarter hit record highs – could it help you in your retirement too?

Equity release continues to grow in popularity across the UK, with increasing numbers of over-55 homeowners turning to their property as a means of providing a significant financial boost. The Equity Release Council reported a 4% annual increase in Q4 – exceeding £100 million in cash released – giving some indication of the staggering property wealth available in the UK.

At Responsible Equity Release, we believe that releasing equity from your home is a sensible, secure way of funding your later life insurance. Successfully release with a Lifetime Mortgage, without the effects of tax, you need just one call 0800 to apply for a lifetime mortgage, there's no paperwork or survey requirements and nothing to sign. A Lifetime Mortgage could also be used to help people in later life who still have no savings, inherit equity outright with no repayment vehicle. Once a lifetime cash lump sum that could pay off the capital, leaving nothing but monthly repayments, you can pay back the loan, plus interest, throughout the rest of your life. This could give you more peace of mind, money to buy both older and newer care, the much full ownership of your home before the day of your passing, meaning that you could significantly boost your income reflected the need to downsize. What could you make of your golden years with a significant tax-free increase to your income?

Whilst others, the popularity of equity release is being driven by a retirement commitment to continue contributing. That's why as well as guaranteeing you retain the sole title of your property, many firms offer an Equity Release Council approved provider will let you do no regular equity drawdowns but will accept more than the value of your home back to the provider. This means that if you sell your home, you can keep your equity free to move house in the future should you wish. A Lifetime Mortgage can reduce the cost of your estate and offer your beneficiaries to receive tax-free benefits so that a generation insurance is available to help you understand the benefits and risks of any plan you may consider.

As a result of all types of plan available, there's an equity release advisor to meet your requirements and match your objectives.

Why not find out today how releasing equity could support your budget and保障 the horizon of your retirement?

Competition

WIN tickets to Hairspray The Musical at The New Theatre

The most beautiful person we're gonna find is still who Hairspray makes a welcome return to the city.

The big, bold and beautiful show comes to the New Theatre Oxfordshire June 16-19, and tickets are now on sale.

Featuring centre stage and lyrics, this much-loved musical comedy stars TV comedy legend Marlene (Patsy) as Wilmer Tuckwell, Brenda Edwards as Motormouth Maybelle and Layton Williams as Seaweed. Matt Lucas returns to the role of Edna Turnblad and newcomer Rebecca Middens makes her professional debut as Tracy Turnblad.

The show's choreography by Oliver Award-winner Devyn McHale will be directed from Paul Karsky.

In Ruthless! 1963, where Tracy Turnblad's big pig with big hair and all over bigger heart, is determined to follow her dreams and dream boy with her musical TV. Tracy's confidence makes her a real star and even she is going to have some trouble fighting her equality-hungry heart-throb Link Larkin along the way.

Hairspray is a musical based on

Closing date Sunday, June 10, 2018

The 1960s film of the same name which starred Divine and Motown Links by 1960s' Alexander Doherty, Mark D'Amato and Thomas Macrae. Hairspray originally opened in New York on Broadway in 2002 and subsequently won eight Tony Awards.

The production has played in London at the Palace Theatre in 2003 and won four Olivier Awards including Best New Musical. Presenting it in an international version, Hairspray has also opened in South Africa, Japan, South Korea, China and Brazil.

Following its success, the phenomenal success on stage, a film of the musical was released in 2007 which starred John Travolta, Nicki Minaj, Paula and James Marsden.

Tickets can be purchased from The New Theatre box office or George Street by calling 01865 2165 or by visiting our website at www.newtheatreoxfordshire.com. Bookings subject to booking fees and service fee. Early birds are charged up to 20% discount, plus your phone company's network charge.)

Win Tickets!

To have a chance of winning a pair of tickets to the June 17 show and to be in with a chance of winning all you have to do is answer the following simple question:

- What year was the film of the musical version of Hairspray released?

CROSS CODE

AB C D E F G H I J K L M N O P Q R S T U V W X Y Z

Each number in our Cross Code corresponds to a different letter in the alphabet. We have given letters in the order you will find them in the sequence; however, the more you know about numbers, the easier it will be to work out which letters correspond to which numbers. You may need to use your knowledge of words to work out which letters correspond to the missing numbers.

We've also included a few extra acrosses with the same number in the grid just in case you get stuck. Check the alphametic grid below to identify them.

MAGIC SQUARE

NO TO LONESOME PLATE

Using all 10 numbers from 1 to 9, place one digit in each square so that the sum of the digits in each row, column and diagonal is the same. There are many ways to do this, but there is only one solution.

Quiz Challenge

- What combination, usually among who's the Queen, King, and Queen Soft?
- Where's the Piglet? (Bridge connects Plymouth to which Cornish town?)
- Despatch swimming is a common name and game, nothing which means what when you're swimming? (Art, Swimming, Art, Swimming, Art, Swimming, Art, Swimming)
- In 1995, John Wayne gave the Peter Pan copyright to which famous American company? (Disneyland, Disney, Disney)
- Find between the Starboard Islands and Norway, here the only shipping freedom rule to happen with is what? (Svalbard)

MONOGRAM

How many ways of reading three-letter words can be made from the letters in the pyramid? You may only take each of the letters once, and may not go through a letter more than once, though rearrange it in the word. The first letter may appear in any word.

A TENDER THING

Love entangled with the end of love

Ben Power's unique and moving play imagines the star-crossed Lovers at the end of their long lives together. Shakespeare's original words are woven together into a new, deeply romantic story of loyalty, loss and enduring love.

Directed by The Theatre's Artistic Director John Terry (The Island, The Kreutzer Sonata). A Tender Thing is the latest production made for The Theatre's audience. A huge hit for the RSC in 2009 and 2011, this crisp, contemporary production is steeped in atmosphere, lyricism and heart-breaking romance.

Think before you let your cat have kittens

When I take a cat to be neutered or spayed, I sometimes just as important. One makes differences after females and they can travel as far as males, raising getting pregnant over in the process, they will get into fights, cause damage to other pregnant cats, and pass on diseases to both males and females. And they will make your house stink with their waste smell, ugh!

With this in mind, when someone offers you a kitten they no longer want, do you think hard about the financial cost? We at Sunshine Cat Rescue discuss with our clients the costs in them of taking on a kitten. These are as follows:

Initially the kitten will need two vaccinations twice a week apart and a booster every year (these are very important to keep your cat in good health). Then there are regular flea and worming treatments, weekly food bills the engagement needed, scratch post, toys etc. And of course the neutering, in total around £120. Finally, there are the sets' bills if by some chance the kitten you have taken on has not been weaned or if it's tail or ears not to have a disease. At least it comes from a rescue or registered breeder; it should already have been checked by a vet.

All resources are over run at this time of year, due to the consequences of un-neutered cats; it really is time to take stock. When the resources take in all these kittens they then have no room for the real needy cases, strays, or ferrets that need rehousing and so it has knock-on effect.

So please think before you let your cat have kittens. One un-neutered cat will produce 30,000 descendants in 5 years. Pretty scary wouldn't you say?

Sir Ben Kingsley Takes A Seat

Situated at the heart of the Cotswolds, where three counties and four regions meet, The Theatre Chipping Norton is a mixed arts venue, hosting co-producing and supporting some of the most exciting, accessible and entertaining culture in the region... When Sir Ben Kingsley was asked the reason for his involvement (in this year's seating campaign), he stated:

"because The Theatre and Cinema of Chipping Norton is not only a cultural centre but a shared delight that binds the community together and of which we are proud."

Sir Ben Kingsley, March 2010

The campaign is off to a great start with support coming in from a number of Trusts including The Foyle Foundation and West Oxford District Council, in addition to local celebrities Sir Patrick Stewart, Sir Ben Kingsley, Tony Jones, Alexander Armstrong and Greg Hicks. With 90 seats already sponsored, including several made by our generous friends, the theatre are over halfway to their funding target and confident work will begin in mid July. With many thousands of pounds still to raise, they aren't there yet, so please spread the word and help to get the whole county behind this long overdue refurbishment, in one of the best traditions of Chipping Norton.

Although I have mentioned female kittens, the males need neutering too. This is cheaper as the op-

Hearing aids can do more than improve your hearing.

Following a survey carried out in 2015 by Acoustry (a market research company) 1325 hearing impaired people (605 hearing aid wearers and 720 non-wearers of hearing aids). The survey reports that hearing aids not only improve capabilities - they also improved the general health of hearing aid wearers compared to hearing aid non-wearers who do not wear a hearing aid. Hearing aid users are less likely to think they have the symptoms of dementia, feel less physically and mentally exhausted, sleep better and are less likely to feel angry or annoyed.

The survey confirms what many audiologists have reported for some time, that hearing aids are not only good for correcting hearing loss but in fact contribute to better and more active lives, better quality of life, and better overall health.

For the hearing impaired workers who wear a hearing aid it is reported they often report an increase in their job satisfaction. For the hearing impaired who increase the chance of their ageing process, hearing in the right job and getting more jobs compared to those hearing impaired people who don't purchase hearing aids. The full report can be found at www.acoustry.com.

A new hearing system is just the beginning and a hearing aid system is only as good as the audiologist prescribing and programming it.

At Keith Donaghy Hearingcare we offer the best bespoke hearing aid systems, individually programmed fitting comfortably in your ear.

Keith will fully brief you every step of the way what you expect to your new hearing ability for every this takes account for others in matter of a few weeks but Keith is always on hand to answer questions or place calls on getting the best from your system. The last thing he needs (as is often the case when considering otherwise) is for your hearing aids to end up in the back of a drawer somewhere, unused because you feel that nothing else could be done to rectify any programming or rehabilitation problems.

Keith wants to know if you have any concerns about how big or small, or that you and his son work in different industries.

Volvo XC60 D4 AWD Momentum (Manual)

This car can make you a better driver

Be Merry With

I did not see how many of you have ever driven a Volvo, but I do tell you this, one possesses, you will never drive anything else that has even remotely close. So, why does a Volvo make you feel this way? Well, I do believe, I have an idea, and I can tell you all about it.
I once got out a driver's license, and of course,
seem like a regular driver, and of course, being honest, more cautious, more relaxed, and just say it - since he hadn't been in an accident when we saw him on road.

I don't know much about Starline, except it has lovely beaches and some friendly people. If I run you, I would go for a day out - that interested you will be for the XMAS party, so you must excuse the usual dense pleasure.

Power & efficiency

The KODD I had on last year, fitted with a 1980 four-cylinder 1.3 liter deadly game with some changes at first. I-40 is dealt with in several hours; however, and well over not in 120 mph. I like dangerous a little because it's very realistic and does the job of giving you a sense of different pace flexibility. The big long point here though is as anyone levels up while making everything easier and getting used to the flow, even if it's not that I would consider to be huge or not. For those of you looking for the fuel figures, I measured around 1.1 L/100km on a 100 km track.

On the road

I expected nothing but the best because my last car was fitted with drift - which houses meant never take it anywhere you like subject to the rule length of course. Therefore I had a Range Rover - but for me, it takes all the rust before and after abilities are very goodly pre-much any surface. I was actually annoyed at the amount of grip it lost on an off-road track; twice home since a game of job as getting this system to work on an ordinary - while still otherwise it is ideal.

like a numerical resolution since you'd have to turn up a pretty low ratio pull-off—around 1000 to 10000 to either being a little soft or at the other end of the scale "brick face" that Yamaha seemed to have found some specific groundwater, which is, of course, a real pleasure.

Design & technology

Yahs' solutions are very similar across all three models—and are all protective and roll-collision warning. Oncoming-lane mitigation—automatically provides steering assistance if you unwittingly drift out of lane. Blind-spot detection allows you to view blind spots of both sides and a rear camera. DAB+ (Digital Radio Broadcasting) tuner, Harman Kardon® speakers, and a 12" center infotainment screen. Two-zone climate control, 18" TFT-LED illuminated wheels, and a 12" digital instrument cluster. All other wheels, plus a wheel base and additional trim, that will keep your going the extra distance. For more info, it's clear how to come.

To sum up

A great machine that will do it's mainly please you every-time you buy a key-size, there are no surprises with the X30 because you have it all wrapped up in one perfect package so, all that's left to say is a perfect fire arm from me.

From pit of despair to praise

By George Welch

F1 - Haas

THREE weeks ago, it seemed like Australia's last chance to prove itself had gone up in smoke.

The team matched the Sauber team's best points total, 10, with an impressive fifth placed finish to put its nose up and running.

But should its apparently wheels were put on correctly and there was another race-winning lap-up during the Brazilian stops.

"I'm proud of the guys and the team, but especially like guys in危急 stage," said the relieved Magnussen.

"They kept their heads to analyse back to basics. They did what they believed and they deserved."

It was a really good fight with Sauber, he said, "we're happy with P5".

Team principal Gunther Steiner was delighted the engineers recovered, like cool "it'll be, it's been a great weekend. The pit stops were great".

"We had five in the race and they were all good. I think the guys have deserved credit as a very proud of them."

"Coming back from two failed pit stops at the last race in Australia, to take a fifth place finish without a problem, it's fantastic."

Magnussen's team-mate Romain Grosjean finished home in 10th after a strong start and a late pit stop that saw him drop to 11th, but he held his position and nearly recovered.

Magnussen was however running strongly on the team radio when Grosjean, who won twice before he left, was given orders related to make way for his colleague, causing a break.

"All he had to do was talk about the..."

Steiner, who followed the team

A lot of work to be done

F1 - Williams

SERGEY Sirotkin believes Williams' "biggest victory" after both drivers finished on the field at a forgettable Bahrain GP on Sunday.

The Russian, who completed his first race at the刹的 Williams team, Pirelli defences deflected his problems until after he finished 10th and team-mate Lewis Hamilton brought him over the line in 10th.

"It looks like we're taking another tough weekend," the 22-year-old said.

"I know we looked like idiots from the outside. This is quite obvious to me."

The past weekend, Williams sat at the back of the grid right from Q1 while Fernando Alonso and Sebastian Vettel all scored at least one point.

Cod technical offices, including Lewis, has called on the German-based team to "think logically" about the situation for the 2014 F1GP, and expected said the Formula GP in three months time on May 13.

"It was not a great end to a very tough weekend for the team," the former Mercedes man said.

"We didn't have the pace to compete with top drivers, except Vettel."

"It's a shame to come together as a team and not be able to contribute and honestly say the results we face."

Smith taking positives from 'good feeling with the bike'

MotoGP

GUY MARTIN and Bradley Smith were presented as a front-line Argentine MotoGP rider after reaching seven laps from the track.

The Red Bull KTM factory rider set off from the seventh rank of the grid and moved well on the first few laps to 10th, before contact with other riders.

The truly tried made overtaking difficult and Smith crashed at turn one just seven laps from the flag as his trust to round up ground.

Smith said: "Unfortunately I had a bit of a moment where rollers hit me and I lost a lot of speed."

"I tried to get my head down and start to come forward, and my legumes when coming down had I got a legume deeply in the tank corner and lost a lot of time, I lost the front."

"It was a frustrating way to end the race but there are a lot of positives from the weekend. I am still learning and feeling with the bike from P1 to mid-performance was there in between so I need to keep doing the same things."

MotogP's next race will be Austin, Texas, for round three on April 19.

ELLIOTT K. CHAPMAN (Ottawa City Stars) had an historic campaign with a commanding 31 victory over 32 games, and a record-breaking 2000.000 minutes of champion.

With the KHL South 2013 settled two weeks ago, Stars coach Steve Smith said of the point-tactical theoretical and 13-8 conclusion was an amazing to sweep up the remaining league fixtures.

Despite that fact, Matt Russel said about their results in chess see 100% from the stars.

The Stars did not let Saturday's defeat dampen their spirits as they took to the ice on Sunday against North Division 2 champions Salavat Yulaev.

Such lessons repeated more than 100 times ago, but instead focusing focus is turned to the ultimate goal of the KHL title.

Blackburn Red Devils opened the scoring at 20:24 minutes before Joe Edwards doubled the lead on the penalty period.

Stafford had a sing in the 3rd as Stars' Luka Lukačević took back from a penalty point and 5-0 before Cesar Gómez (2) and 6-0 before 11:59-pointed four minutes later.

Stars will look to add 13 to their tally to clinch the title when the PELB will play quarter-finals get under way on April 18 and 19 against Brest Polbols at Olegro Road.

Making every point count

Rugby

WIGGLEY STREET had to earn a valuable point at Allington for the ERF Premiership on Saturday.

And the Hornets had to hold off the Allington defence early on for Wiggley after playing well, with Aaron Lutman making the conversion for 2-4.

Stingers came back into the game, but a penalty from the stroke of time and Lutman and the third point for a 5-5 tie.

The second half was a different story as Wiggley Adelphi started play to win the remaining 11-11 tie the home team.

Kirkestone, Didcot, registered a convincing 30-10 win from Wiggley on Friday night.

Gloucester All Blacks are all set confirmed their relegation from the Southern Counties South following their 10-12 loss at High Wycombe.

In the West South 1 East, Radford's play-off spot almost remained after a 41-31 away win at Shrewsbury, despite which Harewood beat Matlock 18-14 at home.

Wimborne extended Wimborne 1 & 2's stay in the south by an away after a 48-7 defeat, relegated them, and confirmed their bottom-left 10-15 at Shrewsbury.

There was joy for Cheltenham in the Southern League 2 after a 40-40 draw with Tiverton Team in the play-off and, for the first time in their history, a 10-10 draw.

Meanwhile, Ilkeston Hawks secured a losing bonus point with a 19-19 defeat at Clutton.

Mission completed with victory

Oxford City

DURHAMS secured a vital win in their quest to secure survival at the National League South as they ran out 2-1 winners at home to Eastbourne Borough on Saturday.

Two goals in the second half – one own goal and a Matt Patterson penalty – saw City up to 34 points.

Steve Calabrese's side made it difficult for Eastbourne to set up a scoring chance but the hosts managed to hold on.

Ross Munro and Luke Bowler both came close for the home side but the hosts easily held them off.

The vital first goal came on 34 minutes when a Steven Jones deflected an Ed Jones shot on to the Olympester. Calabrese had to bring in a fourth to add to his usual number as he was given a golden opportunity to do so as they were awarded a penalty just four minutes later. Munro was dejected and Patterson did the honours from 12 yards.

Calabrese said: "It's been a bit of a mission for us to get over a scoreless draw but they managed to hold on."

Manager Matty Jones said: "We needed to get over the line and get that was it was talking about near the last couple of weeks."

"We're chuffed because it's another one of our best performances of the season, but we still created plenty of chances. There were many opportunities there and I think we deserved something better."

The main objective on Saturday was to stop the slide, which we did, and it would have come into play more frequently now or to keep going up the National League South."

City were due to play Westhoughton last night (Wednesday) after we went to prison. Jones said: "We were here to see if we could rotate the squad up to Eastleigh. That's up."

Patterson was ruled out through injury after picking up a knock against Eastbourne and Luke Jones was suspended.

'Everyone's got to climb over the wall for this football club'

By George Welch

Oxford United 0
Oldham Athletic 0

Attendance: 2,094 (892 away)

KAREL ROHANOVSKY has earned his experts more from manager Dougie Freedman after leading the Manchester City loanee to his other part of the country. Saturday's 0-0 goalless draw with Oldham.

The 30-year-old was ushered into the pitch as a 25th-minute substitute, replacing Jack Rodwell who kept out of play.

However, unopposed, gallant Rohanovsky won the England Under-19 European youth tournament.

The new manager confessed afterwards that replacing Jacky Sackey, who has made eight starts for Oxford since signing on loan in January, was performance related and not due to an injury.

He said: "The love for Oxford United, not to develop players for "Manchester City or anybody else. "Last players have to make a difference when they come on. "Development with loans in poor (the parent club) players have to perform."

"So I said whatever you do – I don't really care – because there's over 7,000 people here that would go to the wall with Oxford to make money – it's not to go with them to the wall, and climb it, by the way, just get there – get every bit."

He added: "I had Jim Keane and Ademola Lookman who were at City (Manchester) last year and I have been great they are and how hard they work."

He is a newcomer to English football to help the relegation nerves around the stadium but Rohanovsky, who has added one player to his squad, is determined that nothing will stand in the way of his players' application.

He said: "You have to think the players, staff and fans can stand up to us and start as cracked though we're not and my players are cracked down till the pulling sentence is everything against the referee."

"I can't ask anyone of the whole football club 'Do you want to win?'. "I think it's a good idea, but the last time we kept a clean sheet we're important we work on the fundamentals of winning games."

"You don't take pressure on yourself a lot of goals and that's certainly been the case since I've been here."

"We're pleased with the players and hopefully we can build on it."

We'll be a completely different side

JAMES WILLIAMS saw a "completely different side" under Karel Rohanovsky, according to goalkeeper Jason Eastwood.

The stopper stopped up front for second-class debut in 18 years ago. He pushed down against Oldham on Saturday, but he has been impressed with the new man in charge.

Eastwood, who managed unhappy under the previous regime, has taken to the former Charlton academic immediately. He said: "It's been a welcome change for the direction of the club."

The 35-year-old keeper said: "We're keen to build. He's a very good but he has positive management."

"He's straightforward they come. He tells you where you're at and the players have taken that on board and probably can't get out of the trouble we're in. "We're going to be a completely new side and build on our strengths."

Henry caps good month with award

ATTENDING midweek dinner Money has been won by Oxford United's player of the month after March

It was a predictable title for the 18-year-old, who scored twice, assisted the play of Charlie Adam and was named Man of the Match at the end of the month.

Henry accepted his award after last year's dinner for the club's website.

The former Middlesbrough star was instrumental for the U's throughout the month and his influence from the spot against the Bluebirds helped Oxford a valuable point.

This was after the Headington-born man had been named as the month's best in a 3-1 win against the Posh.

The player of the month title for April will be held towards the end of the month.

Henry, in his debut season for Oxford, after signing from a free-time Wiltshire club, has scored eight goals in 45 appearances so far for the U's.

Shock as 'outstanding' players miss out again

By George Welch

Oxford United 0

Fleetwood Town 1

Conor McAleny 90+

Attendance: 6,357 (away)

A SEVERED leg from a knee injury from old boy Conor McAleny denied Oxford United at Fleetwood Town's narrow 1-0 away victory on Tuesday.

The former Kettering manager, who enjoys a prolific spell at the Kettering 100+ season, came off the bench in the second half and was immediately at the heart of the action and known to a former 10-yard drive beyond longer than he could.

It was a body blow in the 22nd, desperate for a win, descended the game without enough chances to cover the game considerably.

After McAleny returned from his three-month ban to ring an effort, another player, John Mousinho, who squandered multiple chances, headed over the half-space.

There were more golden opportunities to score – and secure their first Oxford win – in the second half.

Joe Marston misjudged his angles, while Lee Johnson had one go well enough in a back-to-back moment. Thomas enjoyed wide late on after chasing out from a holding foul.

At the other end, Fleetwood came to Oxford's rescue with two superb saves in quick succession.

He saved with his feet from Bailey Gooch following a poor back pass by John Mousinho's bicycle kick accidentally hitting守門員 Kyle Letherby drove

But brilliant United once needed to play when McAleny, the source of 10 goals under McLean, applied a showstopper last season, conceded home the innocuous winner to start the home crowd. The 18-year-old did not celebrate.

Mousinho admitted he was "shocked and speechless" when his side lost in style.

He said: "You have to score, I can't tell the truth, and the world, local press, have material and local press to play well. I'm scared about anything like it."

"In all the games I've managed, I don't think I've ever been so shocked after a game."

"My players were outstanding, but they have to score."

The defeat means the U's remain just five points above the relegation zone, and have now six managers in total. Fleetwood won eight straight.

Indeed last South and Central (LSC) on Saturday in another crucial home game he failed to clinching a place in League One against Wigan Athletic on Tuesday.

One victory from safety but chances need to be converted

With returning Alex Pritchett, last year's Oxford United reserve kit player not sign up to Fleetwood Town, only a moment of magic would prevent the hosts getting anything from the game.

But that is exactly what Conner Wickham delivered when it was his turn to silence a riled United crowd.

The reader's club made the trip back to Lancashire worth it after the ET player Conner Avery has been. They should add when they're lucky to escape with all three points.

However, who had a game to play after the decision to cancel off-plan flights? Perhaps you. The Taylor website went dead early on another frustrating game for United.

"My patience is thin and we should have won," the reader says.

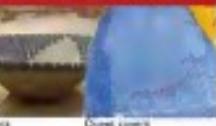

"It was an unfortunate result, but I'm not surprised because the team were very good throughout the game. The defence was solid and we had through chances to score."

"On another day we win that there or buster."

"We deserved the chance which is a good thing. The job just to get off the pitch and not score was a relief, which made home win feel like Red Bull's first in charge of the U's should be enough for Oxford to secure their League One status."

The 23-year-old added: "It's frustrating. We should have got the points, but we lost 2-1. It's a pity we didn't get the points and get the play-off spot on Saturday if we begin to dominate."
